GIVE WAY TO PEACE

ARMISTICE PACT
NOW RESPECTED
TURKS DECLARE

Angora Government Forwards Note to Allies on Situation.

TROUBLE DISSIPATED

Allies Obtaining all Ships Possible to Carry Away Refugees.

Constantinople, Nov. 16.—The Near East war clouds rolled away today. Representatives of the Kemal government notified the allied high commissioners that their fears of a Turkish outbreak were groundless and that the terms of the Mudania armistice pact will be respected. The allies are obtaining all the ships possible to carry refugees away from Constantinople, Smyrna, and Sam-soun.

Constantinople, Nov. 16.—Terms of the Mudania armistice treaty will be respected by the Turkish Nationalists.

A note from the Angora government adds that there will be no insistence on the withdrawal of allied troops from the zones laid down in the Mudania convention.

The note, which had been eagerly awaited for several days, brought relief to the allied officials and the population of the capital, who had seriously doubted the good intentions of the Angora government. It is felt here that the unfavorable reception of the Kemal demands throughout the world caused them to reconsider their decisions and adopt a more conciliatory attitude.

While all the clauses of the Nationalist note are not wholly acceptable or pleasing to the allies, the document is considered to offer a reasonable basis for discussion and negotiation. In diplomatic circles it is felt that the note precludes the danger of war before the convocation of the Lausanne peace conference.

Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation to the Lausanne peace conference, discussed the near east situation with Premier Poincare at Paris, and at the conclusion of the interview declared: "My conference with M. Poincare was most satisfactory. "If there are any fresh incidents at Constantinople it won't be our fault. We want peace also. You may be sure that whatever we sign we will not violate," he added.

FURNITURE PLANT
WIPED OUT BY FIRE

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 16.—Fire yesterday morning nearly wiped out the whole plant of Kurtz Bros., this city, manufacturers of furniture and office fixtures. The estimated loss close to $800,000. The fire started in the varnishing room while the night shift was at work.

Besides expensive machinery and a half dozen frame buildings there went up in smoke sixty finished dining room suites and a large amount of other stock. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

LABOR SITUATION
REPORTED AS GOOD

Washington, Nov. 16.—Unemployment this winter will be at its lowest ebb since the war days, experts at the department of commerce and the labor department stated on the basis of a national survey. Few people who want work need go without a job, they stated. They foresee an acute labor shortage, particularly in the unskilled labor industries, early in the spring. Little unemployment exists today, the department said. Last year, at the time when the acute situation caused President Harding to convene his famous unemployment conference, more than 3,000,000 workers were jobless.

SENATOR HARRISON BALKS

Washington, Nov. 16.—Administration plans for reorganization of government departments, now before President Harding, were attacked in a statement by Senator Harrison (Dem., Miss.), a minority member of the reorganization commission. He said the tentative report to the president had been drawn without submission to the full commission, and announced he would not sign any report without full investigation.

Political Circles Buzzing
Over President's Letter

Statement Attributed to Harding to Effect That Public Mind is Shifting Somewhat With Regard to Enforcement of Prohibition Draws Interest

New York, Nov. 16.—Political circles were buzzing today over a letter which President Harding has written to Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late Theodore Roosevelt, in which he is declared to have stated that the public mind is undoubtedly shifting somewhat with regard to the enforcement of prohibition.

Mrs. Robinson, who read the letter to the members of the Republican neighborhood association, today refused to give out the text for publication. She said she would have to obtain permission from the president. Members of the association who heard the letter read said the president expressed the belief that the eighteenth amendment would never be abolished but that there is no doubt but what the public opinion is shifting somewhat in regard to enforcement of the act.

The president was reported to have said that he expects prohibition to be an issue for many years to come. Prohibitionists, he said, would always clamor to enforce the law while anti prohibitionists would work to see it weakened.

Mrs. Robinson said a Republican had written to her protesting against the prohibition issue. She said that she felt she should call the letter to the president's attention and she did so, getting his letter in response.

MUST FINANCE U. S.
AGRICULTURE SOON

Columbus, Nov. 16.—In order to restore American agriculture to American prices it is necessary to organize and finance it to a point where a unified sales policy is possible, where it can hold, or sell, surplus abroad at world prices; regulate supply to demand at cost, plus profit on the domestic market; protect agriculture with a tariff and give it control of its own marketing mechanism.

This is the judgment expressed by George N. Peck, Moline, Ill., grower and manufacturer, addressing a meeting of the Ohio Implement Dealers' Association, in session here today.

JAPAN WILL "LOOK ON"

Tokyo, Nov. 16.—Japanese newspapers printed the decision of the United States supreme court holding Japanese ineligible for naturalization as American citizens. No comment was made, except in case of the Hochi Shimbun, which said it was impossible for Japan to do anything, because that would mean interfering in American domestic affairs. "For the time Japan will just have to look on," added the paper.

TO DISCUSS PROPOSAL

Cleveland, Nov. 16.—To review results of the recent elections, lay plans for future political action and to discuss the advisability of the formation of a third party in the nation, a national meeting of the conference for progressive political action has been called to meet in Chicago Dec. 11, it was learned here.

PROTEST IS FILED
BY THE MEXICANS

Washington, Nov. 16.—The Mexican embassy has made representations to the state department against the alleged lynching of a Mexican, Elias Villareal Zarate, in Westlake, Tex., last Saturday, and asking guarantees for the Mexican consul in Hidalgo, Tex., whose life is said to have been threatened. According to the embassy's advice, Villareal Zarate was put in jail after a fight with an American, and then was taken out and lynched. The authorities afterwards refusing a request of the Mexican consul that an investigation be made. The embassy asks guarantees for the safety not only of the consular but of other Mexicans in Texas.

The embassy's communications were taken under consideration by the state department and state officials of Texas probably will be asked for full information to form the basis of whatever reply may be formulated.

LEADERS WILL CONFER

Paris, Nov. 16.—Premier Poincare, without replying in detail to Lord Curzon's memorandum, sent word to London that he saw nothing in it to prevent France and England from reaching an accord on the attitude the delegates shall take at Lausanne. Lord Curzon, therefore, is expected to come to Paris on Saturday for a talk with the premier; then both will go to Lausanne and discuss conference matters with the Italian representatives.

Stewart, filed proven claims aggregating $174,503.10, representing money she is alleged to have "borrowed" from them on unsecured notes. The claims ranged in amounts from $100 to $44,000. Attorneys representing various creditors say unproven claims will total $150,000.

Judson Harmon Argues Motion Government Make Petition Specific

Dayton, Nov. 16.—Judson Harmon, former governor of Ohio is here today to argue the motion before Federal Judge Sater, in behalf of the Dayton Wright Airplane Company, that the government make its petition more specific and certain, in its suit to recover approximately $2,500,000 alleged to have been wrongfully paid by the defendant company, in settlement of war-time contracts.

This is the first move made by the company since the suit was instituted.

The argument will be made this afternoon in Federal Court and it is expected that a ruling will be rendered within a few days.

Upon the result of the ruling hinges the date of the trial of this lawsuit, which will probably be the first of the war-time contract suits tried.

The government's petition sets up the fact that large amounts were wrongfully paid to the company. Attorneys for the company contend that it has already refunded the government a large proportion of the money alleged to be due and that the suit is for the purpose merely of clearing the records and ascertaining the correct amount yet to be paid.

WANTS JOBS FOR

Mrs. James J. Davis

While visiting in San Francisco, Mrs. James J. New Premier's Tories Are Slightly in Lead in British Election.

LOYD GEORGE STRONG

In Position to Embarrass His Successor It Is Now Conceded.

London, Nov. 16.—With only 52 constituencies missing returns counted up to five o'clock this afternoon showed 329 Tories elected to the House of Commons in Wednesday's general election. The Labor party continued to make gains and the result tabulated at 5 o'clock showed at least 128 Laborites elected. Premier Bonar Law's Tory government will have a safe majority. The other results were: Asquith Liberals 55; Lloyd George Liberals 38; others 13.

London, Nov. 16.—Tabulation of one half of the returns of the British election indicated today that Premier Bonar Law's Tory government will have a majority in the House of Commons but that the opposition from former Premier Lloyd George's Liberal party would be so strong, that the Tories would have to seek assistance from the Asquith Liberals.

A feature of the election was the strength polled by the Socialist-Labor candidates. Returns received up to 9 o'clock showed that 69 Laborites had been elected. It was apparent that labor will exert a powerful voice in the next Parliament.

The number of members of Commons supporting Lloyd George has been reduced, but it was evident even before the balloting began that the former premier could not gain control of Commons because he did not have sufficient candidates in the field for this purpose.

Premier Bonar Law said at noon that he was entirely satisfied with the results. He said he expected the Tory cabinet to have a working majority but he would not make any specific predictions as to figures. He added that he did not believe that the Laborites and Liberals would make any further gain.

At least two women were elected—Viscountess Astor and Mrs. Thomas Wintringham. Both were members of the old parliament. The new parliament will assemble Nov. 20.

India gains a seat in Commons through the election of Saklatvala Parsee on the Laborite ticket from Battersea.

J. H. Thomas, England's foremost labor leader, also was elected.

Major Astor a Tory, was elected with a majority of 10,926 votes.

Austen Chamberlain, former government leader in Commons and a supporter of Lloyd George was re-elected at Birmingham.

Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, former minister of agriculture was defeated at Taunton by J. H. Simpson, a Liberal.

G. H. Shakespeare, secretary to Lloyd George was elected.

Tabulation of the British election returns at 3:30 o'clock showed the following elected to Commons: Tories 289.

Laborites 169.

Asquith Liberals 44.

Lloyd George Liberals 37.

Others 11.

Not yet counted 125 constituencies.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise waiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

U. S. CANNOT AVOID WORLD OBLIGATIONS SAYS HARDING

America's attitude toward the rest of the world and the Government's position with respect to the broader aspects of the relationship of nations today formed the theme of President Harding's message to the country on the eve of Armistice Day. In part he said:

"The increasing enthusiasm with which our people join in the annual observance of Armistice Day enforces the conclusion that it is destined to be one of the notable anniversaries in our calendar, and indeed it well deserves to be all of that, for it marks the victorious culmination of our Nation's most impressive participation in the affairs of the world.

"Our first duty will, indeed, be to our own, but that duty cannot be adequately discharged in narrowness and selfishness. That we may be guided to a just judgment of the time and occasion for further proof of our interest in the common cause of humanity, and in choosing the methods whereby to discharge the obligation thus created, will be, I am sure, a fitting prayer for this armistice anniversary."

This does not mean any "entangling alliance," as provided in the League of Nations, but a fervent thank God that we are out of such alliance. We were in the World War in self defense. We had been assaulted, and whoever could do no less than strike back. But "Armistice Day" means that we licked the assaulter to a stand-still on his knees, thank God.

PUBLIC SPIRIT.

As men are found wanting in a sense of humor, they may lack the quality known as public spirit, so that if they cannot bring a project within the radius of selfish interest they will have none of it.

It takes a degree of education to understand that what is for the good of all is good for each. Men of a crude order of mentality are often extremely difficult to persuade into unified action, because they think they are surrendering something of their own without a measurable gain. Each asks, "What is there in it for me?" blind to the fact that "in union there is strength," not merely for the whole, but for every element fused therein.

Suppose that a man's strength were invested in a good cause without the remotest prospect of benefit accruing to himself directly. It still would be a good thing for him that he made the effort and the sacrifice. We do not think of "public spirit" as a proper name for the policy of one who, ere he acts, must calculate his individual returns.

There are men much before the public who are there not for the sake of leading it, or giving something to it or doing something for it, but for the purpose of being conspicuously seen and vociferously talked about.

Along with all the noisy self-advertising one beholds on every hand, it is reassuring to feel that most people have no part in such business and are amused only mildly at the efforts of some to lift themselves into prominence on a very slender apparatus of intellect, or personal worth, but are soon found out.

AMERICAN SHOE EXPORT TRADE WORTH MORE THAN TEN MILLION DOLLARS.

Leather shoes of American manufacturers now are being worn in more than fifty countries, which means in virtually every section of the globe.

Approximately 3,839,000 pairs of American shoes were exported in the first three-quarters of this year, according to reports to the Department of Commerce. This is within 2 per cent of shipments by English manufacturers, who are competing with the United States to control the world's trade in footwear.

American exports in September were approximately 40 per cent greater than in the same month of 1921. British gains were also large, but not so much as those of American exporters.

American shoes are crowding out all others in many British colonies and dependencies, despite tariff rates preferential to British goods. In Canada 80 per cent of the shoes imported are of American manufacture. Jamaica takes approximately 3 per cent of all American shoe exports. British South Africa is another heavy buyer of the American product.

Cuba, which purchased 1,150,000 pairs in the first nine months of the present year, is the biggest customer for American footwear. Mexico is second. That country bought 422,000 pairs in the same period. Canada's purchases amounted to 292,000 pairs, while England bought 189,000 pairs of American-made shoes.

The shoe-export trade was worth more than $10,000,000 to American manufacturers in the first nine months of 1922.

NO MORE WORK.

Thomas A. Edison, viewing the New York electrical show, laments that pretty soon electric motors will be doing all the world work and poor humanity will have nothing to occupy itself with any more.

That sad situation, however, doesn't seem due for some little time yet. And even if it were imminent, most of us would be willing to have an honest try at getting along without the hard labor that has been man's lot since Adam was turned out of Eden. In fact, the more we think about it, the more leisure we feel able to endure. And the sight and sound of wheels whirling and humming cheerily at their work while we simply rested or went about the things we have always wanted to do isn't discouraging prospect at all.

That leisure might be spent profitably, too, if it were not all devoted to sport, dancing, movies and radio. There might be quite a few good books read that people don't have time or energy to read now. There might even be more thinking done; and calm, clear thinking puts people ahead more than everlasting action.

GIVING THEM A DOSE OF THEIR OWN MEDICINE

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Mr. Elmer Kelly entertained a number of young people at his home Saturday evening.

And still they come! Last Saturday the High School foot ball team from Troy came down for their share of defeat and got it 23 to 0. Next Saturday the Xenia eleven go to Washington C. H., to play the high school team of that place. On Thanksgiving day they will meet Cedarville College here, which game will probably be the hardest played by the Xenia boys this season.

The members of Catharine Greene Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution will hold their regular monthly meeting tomorrow at the Kingdom on East Main Street.

The new M. E. Church at Osborn was dedicated with appropriate exercises Sunday, the day ending a week's preparatory service leading to the dedication and conducted by the pastor Rev. R. E. Smith.

INEXPENSIVE SOAPS

Some people have an idea that the more expensive a soap is the better it must be. This isn't the least bit true and is rather distressing because so many girls spend more than they can possibly afford on costly soaps for the praiseworthy purpose of preserving their pretty complexions.

It is perfectly true that the costly soaps are good in quality and mild, but there are ever so many inexpensive soaps that are every bit as beneficial to the skin. A good soap gives a good lather, except when the water is particularly hard, in which case of course a special variety adapted to hard water must be used. A soap with a delicate perfume is of course delightful to use, but it is not a bit more cleansing than one with only its own clean odour. A soap that comes from France may tempt you to spend a great deal on it, but remember you are paying for packing and shipping and all the other little expenses attached to an imported article. If you can afford it, all right. If not, there are plenty of home-made soaps that are as good.

By all this I do not mean to recommend cheap soaps. You must not buy any variety that contains too much caustic or soda, for this will dry and harm the skin. You must never use harsh soaps, though they do cleanse more quickly, simply because they harm the delicate tissues of the skin. Personally, I recommend curd soap as a good cheap soap for bathing and shampooing. Castile is better and only slightly more expensive. Unscented oatmeal bleaches the skin, keeping it soft and white. Tar soap is inexpensive and delightful as a shampoo. None of these cost very much.

Olive.—Soaps that are made for laundry purposes are too severe to use on the face; even the hands that are constantly immersed in soapy water become impaired and only good treatments with creams will counteract this abuse. A fine soap costs so little that you should not resort to such soaps on the face as have caustic qualities.

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4640 Orcas St., Seattle, Washington.

GOD'S COUNTRY.

God's country is, in very truth, the country where I spent my youth. It is a bleak and rocky place whose climate is a rank disgrace; six months you freeze, six months you bake, and every rainbow is a fake. But there I gambled in the snow; when I was young, long, long ago; and there I fished in shady streams, in summertime, and dreamed my dreams, and there I had a bunch of friends who loved me, with no selfish ends. Now I infest a pleasant clime where spring is smiling all the time; my trees are bearing figs and cloves and I have gaudy lemon groves; no sizzling heat deforms July, no winter gales go whooping by; the skies are nearly always blue, a standard ocean is in view, and all the heart of man could ask seems lavished on me where I bask. "God's country!" people say to me, when first this pleasant land they see. And I exult with them awhile, and say, "God's country," with a smile. But in my dreams I still go back along a dim and winding track to that far region where the snow is on the ground six months or so, and where a pleasant day's as rare as antlers on a polar bear. And having reached that region drear, in dreams I cry, "God's country's here!"

Today's Talk

A Silent Man

I met a silent man the other day. I went with him here and there. We mixed with folks of every sort in a big city. We drove to the sea and watched its calm, and then its roar as its foam spit upon the sands. We looked upon the sun as it crept to its night nest far out upon the great Pacific. And you have never seen the play of the clouds at sun down across the Golden Gate, have missed a faint idea of what Heaven must be like.

Such streaks of gold, such opaled beauty! Breath-taking changes in every variety of color. As a friend has expressed it—"just God gone on a carnival!"

Gypsies in the sky—in their pinks, and geranium magenta and scarlets. Liquid gold-yellow melting second by second into something yet more lovely and divine.

And I was happy with my silent friend—and like him from the very first.

He understood what I understood—loved what I loved.

He was a man of the sea. He was used to storms, hurricanes and stress. Like Ulysses he had been far, learned much, and become a part of all he had met. And mostly in silence he told it all to you—thrillingly.

What a joy to be with a big silent man!

It was Emerson who once said that "what you are speaks so loud that I cannot hear what you say."

It is that silent force within us that leads us on and makes us liked or loved for what we are.

Our judgments are orbed in silence.

This silent friend of mine whom I have so recently met, will be an inspiration to me as I walk noisy streets, and pass through the hurly-burly lanes of this speedy age.

The silent man—reserved in judgment, sound in the truest loyalty.

RED CROSS DRIVE GOING WELL SAY LOCAL OFFICIALS

"The Sixth Annual campaign for memberships and contributions, of the Greene County Red Cross, is meeting with success," was the statement of Miss Louise Shaffer, executive secretary of the county chapter Thursday. "Reports are so incomplete that it will be a few days before anything definite can be stated," she continued. "The response in the City of Xenia is gratifying, and the word from over the county received at Red Cross headquarters is very good."

"While we will not reach any wartime proportions," said the Rev. W. H. Tilford County Red Cross Chairman, "we will at least have exceeded other years." As the peace-time program becomes known in Greene County, many hundreds more will rally to the standards of the Red Cross, is the belief the Rev. Mr. Tilford expressed Thursday.

Henry T. Reed, national representative of the Red Cross, visited the offices of the local county headquarters Tuesday, and expressed encouragement for the Red Cross drive in Greene County. "Out of 22 counties in the south-western portion of Ohio, I found a year and half ago, 12 Red Cross paid secretaries on the job, with but a few counties having a Roll Call," was the statement of Mr. Reed during his short visit. "There are not 20 paid Red Cross secretaries and 22 counties are in the midst of the Roll Call. We endeavor to keep up the standards of Red Cross in these counties and we are well pleased with the fine work accomplished in Greene County last year," stated Mr. Reed. "Everyone should enroll in this organization which touches the public welfare problems in a ventilating way," is the opinion of Red Cross officials. "The Greene County Chapter will carry on but needs the support of every local Greene Countian."

The speaker discussed the "several books he has written, and told of his struggle for education and entrance into the ministry. At the close of his address he gave a call for converts 22 persons responding.

Two duets, "Jesus All For Me" by Mrs. Frank Watkins, and Mrs. B. H. Bortoroff, and "Jesus A'leep in my Bark" by the Rev. and Mrs. Watkins were given during the evening.

The Rev. Mr. Robinson left this city for a meeting in Columbus, and from there will have charge of a meeting in Mount Vernon. He will leave December 5, for his home in Pasadena, and will leave after Christmas for a meeting in Miami, Florida, for a month. He will sail in June with a party of professors from the Pasadena University, for a world trip, planning to visit England, Scotland, Italy, Egypt, Syria, and the holy land. During his travels he will write various books, and preach in leading cities.

PURCHASES HORSE AT SALE IN CLARK

J. W. Faulkner, of this city, purchased Dr. Strongworthy, 2:18 1-4, through his trainer, Colby Turner, of Wilmington, when seventy-three horses went under the hammer at the opening day of the Park Farm horse sale at the Clark County Fairgrounds Wednesday.

Dr. Strongworthy, was purchased from Dr. H. L. Heistad and was one of a number of speeders from the Heistad stable placed on the block at the big sale. The trotter is a gray gelding, sired by Ortolan Axworthy, 2:07 1-2 out of Mary Ward, 2:09 1-2.

The gelding has trotted in 2:12 1-2, last half in 1:04 1-2 and final quarter in 31 seconds, and is considered as a good stake prospect. The purchase price was $460 and it purchase gives the local man, one of the niftiest small harness stables in this section, adding to such formidable speeders as Silver Pointer and Frances D.

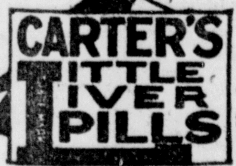

Dr. Strongworthy is said to have been considered by horsemen as one of the likeliest prospects for the short-ship campaigns as any in the Heistad stable and was thought to be one of the most promising trotters put up Wednesday. Colby Turner, the "armless wonder," who has charge of the Faulkner stable and who bid in the trotter, went to Springfield Thursday to take the gelding to Wilmington where his winter training quarters are located.

Dealers Wanted to Sell the Hupmobile

From the dealer's viewpoint, there are today only a few cars which are regarded—and justly regarded—as real money makers.

The Hupmobile is in the very forefront of these cars that dealers can handle with profit.

The Hupmobile is now so priced that it occupies a strategic position.

At its low price, it is recognized everywhere as a remarkable motor car value.

Hupmobile in Strong Demand

New thousands have proved they are willing, and eager, to pay a little more money for Hupmobile's more reliable, more economical service, and brilliant performance.

Hupmobile has for 14 years been recognized throughout the world as one of the biggest values, and one of the soundest mechanisms, manufactured.

Today the confidence in Hupmobile is more pronounced, more nearly 100 per cent, than ever before.

1922 Shatters Sales Records

For 14 years, Hupmobile sales have been constantly increasing. 1922 saw all records shattered.

Next year will throw 1922 into shadow. That is as certain as sunrise.

The dealer who obtains a Hupmobile contract today is in the same advantageous position as the farmer who buys land that has lain fallow for years.

The soil has only to be "tickled with a hoe, to smile with a harvest".

A Fine Car at a Low Price

People want the Hupmobile. They want it because it is actually a fine car, at a low price.

That is the entire Hupmobile idea in a nutshell. This car is built as carefully, to measurements as precise, of materials as fine, as cars costing two and three times its price.

In addition, it has the merit of almost incredible economy of operation, and even more remarkable economy of upkeep.

We are looking for sound business men, with merchandising ability and good bank credit. Such men, we believe, can make more money handling Hupmobiles than they can realize on any other car.

We give real merchandising co-operation. We actually do help you to keep your capital turning over rapidly. Let us tell you how we co-operate. Come and let us give you interesting records of profits made by Hupmobile dealers in this territory. Write today.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

Today the confidence in Hupmobile is more pronounced, more nearly 100 per cent, than ever before.

1922 Shatters Sales Records

For 14 years, Hupmobile sales have been constantly increasing. 1922 saw all records shattered.

Next year will throw 1922 into shadow. That is as certain as sunrise.

The dealer who obtains a Hupmobile contract today is in the same advantageous position as the farmer who buys land that has lain fallow for years.

The soil has only to be "tickled with a hoe, to smile with a harvest".

A Fine Car at a Low Price

People want the Hupmobile. They want it because it is actually a fine car, at a low price.

That is the entire Hupmobile idea in a nutshell. This car is built as carefully, to measurements as precise, of materials as fine, as cars costing two and three times its price.

In addition, it has the merit of almost incredible economy of operation, and even more remarkable economy of upkeep.

We are looking for sound business men, with merchandising ability, and good bank credit. Such men, we believe, can make more money handling Hupmobiles than they can realize on any other car.

We give real merchandising co-operation. We actually do help you to keep your capital turning over rapidly. Let us tell you how we co-operate. Come and let us give you interesting records of profits made by Hupmobile dealers in this territory. Write today.

ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS. SHOEMAKER

Mrs. Walter C. Shoemaker died at her home, 231 East Church street, Thursday morning at nine-thirty o'clock, following a lingering illness, suffering from a complication of ailments.

Mrs. Shoemaker had been in failing health for the past year and a-half, her serious illness dating from April during which time she had been confined to her home.

She was before marriage Miss Gertrude Craig, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Craig, and was born in Spring Valley, December 29, 1880. Her marriage to Mr. Shoemaker took place April 16, 1903. Before her marriage Mrs. Shoemaker was employed as a dressmaker, conducting a shop of her own in this city, where she was well known.

She is survived by her husband and four sons, Frederick, Irvin, Donald and Charles. Mrs. Shoemaker was the last member of her family her parents, and a sister having preceded her in death a number of years ago.

Mrs. Shoemaker was affiliated with First Methodist Episcopal Church of this city for a number of years. She was active in church work, and was also a member of the W. R. C., the Daughters of America, and the Rebekah Lodge. In the work of the latter lodge she served in various capacities, being elected to every chair in the organization, and at one time served as Noble Grand, a high office in the lodge. At the time of her death she was financial secretary of the organization.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed and will be announced later.

NEW SECRET ORDER MAKES ITS DEBUT

Breckenridge, Texas, Nov. 16.—Mexicans and Negroes are in terror here today following the parade of a white robed body of men comprising an organization known as "the white owls."

The organization is composed of white workmen. Approximately 300 persons took part in the demonstration. The parade is said to have been in protest against the employment here of Negroes and Mexican workmen while many white men are idle. Farmers are having great difficulty in securing negroes for work in the cotton fields.

QUARTER MILLION FOR FARMS ASKED

Columbus, Nov. 16.—State Director of Agriculture Taber has announced his belief that the Ohio legislature this winter should appropriate $250,000 with which to compensate farmers for tubercular cattle slaughtered by the state.

Taber said over 55,000 head of cattle were tested during the past year and that there are 1,050 herds containing 17,772 head of cattle in Ohio as compared with 439 herds containing 8,359 head on July 1, 1921.

Styles BY LENORE

As was once said of lace, "when in doubt, use ribbon." Some of the most attractive frocks shown by the leading designers, both in Paris and in New York, emphasized ribbons as a medium for trimming. Two of the cleverest frocks created by Lanvin used ribbon in graceful streamers like the idea illustrated from a sketch. One is a suggestion from a black taffeta frock whose bodice was long and tight, trimmed with a deep bertha of silver lace and a plajue of blue, red and violet rosebuds, with the streamers of silver ribbon. The other frock was of white taffeta, a similar bodice, but the ribbons were distributed in six loops and long ends across the entire front of the skirt. The other two suggestions in the sketch illustrate how a crepe frock may be the gainer by the addition of shirred or pleated ribbon.

ROMANCE BEGUN ON BANKS OF RHINE CONCLUDED IN MARRIAGE OF LOCAL MAN TO GERMAN GIRL

A romance that begun on the banks of the historic Rhine, terminated in New York City Monday with the marriage of pretty Fraulein Maria Diehl, of Coblenz, Germany and Earl Osborn of East Second Street, this city.

Two years and seven months with the Occupational Army in German territory enabled the Xenia youth to meet and woo the little girl from across the water. When he was discharged from the service and returned to this city last June, they parted with the promise that she should come to him when she had attained the age of 21, and would be permitted to make the trip.

Fraulein Diehl had a birthday recently and she didn't lose any time after that. She arrived in New York last Friday and a telegram informed her husband-to-be that she had come to him. He left for New York immediately staged the meeting with his Fraulein, and their marriage was celebrated by a Catholic Priest in the big city, Tuesday they arrived here.

Mr. Osborn was formerly a member of Company K, Eighth U. S. Infantry, a part of the U. S. Army of Occupation. While he patrolled German territory with his buddies, he found plenty of time to court Fraulein Diehl of Germany. Her father was an officer in the German Army, and the long trip of the little

"REDDEST OF RED" IN ARMS OF LAW

Chicago, Nov. 16.—William Brown Lloyd, millionaire who once called himself the "reddest of the red," was expected to be served with papers for his arrest late today or tomorrow.

Immediately upon the serving of the papers, Lloyd will be taken to prison.

Hallisy will be held at St. Brigid's Catholic Church at nine o'clock Saturday morning, with the Rev. Father A. A. Burke celebrating the Requiem High Mass. Burial will be made in the Catholic Cemetery.

WORK OF JUVENILE COURT IS SUBJECT OF TALK TO CLUB

Declaring that he believed the law should be changed so that the court would have longer jurisdiction over a father, guilty of non-support, Probate Judge J. Carl Marshall told members of the Xenia Kiwanis Club, at their meeting Wednesday night the favored legislation that would permit of sentencing such an offender for the period of the time his children were minors.

Judge Marshall made the statement during an address before the Kiwanis Club on the work of the Juvenile Court in Greene County, and pointed out that while at first thought such a law would appear too severe, it would not actually be as hard as it seemed, inasmuch as no attempt would be made to keep the individual behind the bars for that period of time. Paroling a man, said Judge Marshall, would give him his freedom but would still keep him under the jurisdiction of the court, and preclude the necessity of future arrest and attending expense to the county if he failed to comply with the orders of the court.

The work of the Juvenile Court in its endeavor to rehabilitate the youth brought under its control, was dwelt upon by Judge Marshall. He told why he did not commit to the Boys' Industrial School, except in extreme cases, declaring that statistics showed that only about 25 per cent of the boys committed to that institution make good. He cited instances where he had placed delinquent boys in proper homes where they had been given proper training and how they had later developed into normal children.

The cause of most delinquency among youths said Judge Marshall is poverty and neglect in the home. He declared that the money the county has available to relieve cases of widows with children is not sufficient to go around and has to be parceled out as best it can. He commended the work of organizations and clubs which are seeking to lend aid to the needy children of the county.

WONDERFUL FOR SICK STOMACHS

Everyone who tries it willingly acknowledges that it does cure indigestion, and certainly banishes dyspepsia and other stomach distress almost instantly.

Read this letter from Wm. Starkey, Rock Creek, Ohio. I was sick for several years, went to hospital after getting no relief from doctors and many remedies that I tried. Unable to work, and confined to the house, I was advised to try Doctor Orth's Stomach Remedy. I had no faith in anything any more, but I tried it and to my happy surprise it did me good. I am now perfectly well and for six months have been working every day in the blacksmith shop, eating everything I want and in perfect health.

It is with pleasure that I recommend Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy. Money back if Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy does not do what we say it will, and remember that this remarkable remedy is the prescription of a practicing physician who used it with great success in exactly such cases as yours during a period of 60 years. Sayre and Hemphill and all good druggists can supply you.

The Markets

The slow decline in population of the rural districts is no cause for alarm or regret, in the opinion of many thoughtful students of farm life, unless it means that the better type of farmer is leaving the plow for city occupations which he deems more enjoyable.

Many bright, intelligent boys are leaving the farm, but happily many return, better equipped through education, business experience, or travel for the serious pursuit of farming. As for those who leave the farm never to return, many belong to the less efficient, less industrious, and less progressive class of agricultural producers. A long period of depression and devastating prices has exhausted their slender capital and soured their hope and energy. Hard times have forced them out of farming. It is a fair presumption that the ablest farmers have sold their crops for enough money to pay taxes and interest and buy the necessities of life, and will therefore choose to remain on the land and try again. Hope springs nowhere more eternally than in the farmer's breast.

The rural population will doubtless show a further decline during the next few years. More farmers will go out of business just as, when too many grocery stores congregate in the same locality first, one, then another, and then more close their doors until equilibrium has been restored. Men will quit farming for the same reason that other men quit the shoe business or the trucking business, and with the same effect. Those who stick, by using modern methods, good fertilizer, and who are able to raise much larger crops than the same number of hand workers, say in 1890 or 1870.

The need is not for more farmers, but for fewer and better farmers, raising more bushels per acre and per farm, each with a larger individual income. Farming would then become profitable, even at present comparative prices. It is quite possible that more progress lies in this direction than in the attempt to raise prices by artificial control of production or the market.

The outcome of low prices is the progressive elimination of the less efficient farmers and the consolidation of small farms under thorough business management, amply supplied with capital and employing to the fullest scientific methods and machinery. The object of the farm manager is to reduce cost of production to the lowest point.

An Eastern bank writer draws an interesting and truthful distinction between farming and organized labor. Farming is an entire industry in itself, he points out, while labor is only part of an industry. Immunity from prosecution under anti-trust laws may be unfair as between the farming industry and other industries, but it does not disrupt the entire economic system by placing one component part of industry at an advantage as against the other.

Assuming that labor leaders are really interested in bettering the condition of their followers," concludes this writer, "they can have but one attainable object—to get more of the product of the labor of others for less of their own labor. Twist and turn as you will, it all boils down to the simple fact that men cannot consume unless they produce, and when one kind of labor is able to consume more while producing less, some other kind is being deprived of its just share."

This view faces the facts squarely, and is a wholesome antidote for the hazy type of thinking so much in vogue at present and the unintentional neglect or deliberate distortion of facts which makes fair consideration of any point at issue impossible. Instances are conceivable, nevertheless, wherein one kind of labor must consume more, if not produce less, in order to obtain its just share, and in so doing must profit at the expense of other kinds of labor. The large stocker and feeder movement in progress points unmistakably to an increase in meat supply and portends lower prices for another year, other factors remaining constant. Of this last no one can give assurance. For example, business revival may increase consumption. Potatoes are again a disappointment this year. As often happens, the supply is more than sufficient. With shipments gravely hampered by the railroad situation prices are dropping out of sight.

Mild weather has given winter wheat a good start in most regions. A mild winter or a comfortable blanket of snow would remove the recurring danger of winter-killing.

ENGINEER MEETS INSTANT DEATH IN JUMP FROM CAB

Cincinnati, Nov. 16.—Shouting a warning to his fireman when he saw that their train, a south bound freight was about to collide with a wreck train on a trestle near Sadierville, Ky., Tuesday afternoon, J. C. Walten, Ludlow, Ky., the engineer, leaped to the creek bed below and was killed instantly when he landed head downward, snapping his neck. James Atkins, Junction City, the fireman, leaped also but succeeded in staying on the bridge and escaped with minor injuries. Both engines, which were travelling at a comparatively low speed, when they struck, were derailed and damaged but failed to plunge off the trestle. Misunderstood signals are said to have caused the accident.

MINERS LIKELY TO COMPOSE THE JURY

Marion, Ill., Nov. 16.—Miners of "bloody Williamson" County are making no effort to keep off the Herin "massacre" trial jury.

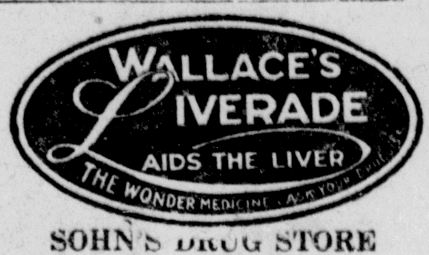

"If a miners' jury" is finally selected, the state of Illinois which is trying five alleged ring leaders in the murder of a score of non-union men, at the Southern Illinois Coal Company mine last June, will have lost its case, in the opinion of observers. Sentiment of the miners in the county is almost unanimously in sympathy with the men on trial.

WORK OF JUVENILE COURT IS SUBJECT OF TALK TO CLUB

Declaring that he believed the law should be changed so that the court would have longer jurisdiction over a father, guilty of non-support, Probate Judge J. C. Marshall told members of the Xenia Kiwanis Club, at their meeting Wednesday night, the favored legislation that would permit of sentencing such an offender for the period of the time his children were minors.

Judge Marshall made the statement during an address before the Kiwanis Club on the work of the Juvenile Court in Greene County, and pointed out that while at first thought such a law would appear too severe, it would not actually be as hard as it seemed, inasmuch as no attempt would be made to keep the individual behind the bars for the period of time. Paroling a man, said Judge Marshall, would give him his freedom but would still keep him under the jurisdiction of the court, and preclude the necessity of future arrest and attending expense to the county if he failed to comply with the orders of the court.

The work of the Juvenile Court in its endeavor to rehabilitate the youth brought under its control, was dwelt upon by Judge Marshall. He told why he did not commit to the Boys' Industrial School, except in extreme cases, declaring that statistics showed that only about 25 per cent of the boys committed to that institution make good. He cited instances where he had placed delinquent boys in proper homes where they had been given proper training and how they had later developed into normal children.

The cause of most delinquency among youths said Judge Marshall is poverty and neglect in the home. He declared that the money the county has available to relieve cases of widows with children is not sufficient to go around and has to be commended the work of organizations and clubs which are seeking to lend aid to the needy children of the county.

The slow decline in population of the rural districts is no cause for alarm or regret, in the opinion of many thoughtful students of farm life, unless it means that the better type of farmer is leaving the plow for city occupations which he deems more enjoyable.

Many bright, intelligent boys are leaving the farm, but happily many return, better equipped through education, business experience, or travel for the serious pursuit of farming. As for those who leave the farm never to return, many belong to the less efficient, less industrious, and less progressive class of agricultural producers. A long period of depression and devaluing prices has exhausted their slender capital and sapped their hope and energy. Hard times have forced them out of farming. It is a fair presumption that the ablest farmers have sold their crops for enough money to pay taxes and interest and buy the necessities of life, and will therefore choose to remain on the land and try again. Hope springs nowhere more eternally than in the farmer's breast.

The rural population will doubtless show a further decline during the next few years. More farmers will go out of business just as, when too many grocery stores congregate in the same locality first, one, then another, and then more close their doors until equilibrium has been restored. Men will quit farming for the same reason that other men quit the shoe business or the trucking business, and with the same effect. Those who stick, by using modern methods, good fertilizer, and farm machinery, will find that they are able to raise much larger crops than the same number of hand workers, say in 1870 or 1870.

The need is not for more farmers, but for fewer and better farmers, raising more bushels per acre and per farm, each with a larger individual income. Farming would then become profitable, even at present comparative prices. It is quite possible that more progress lies in this direction than in the attempt to raise prices by artificial control of production or the market.

The outcome of low prices is the progressive elimination of the less efficient farmers and the consolidation of small farms under thorough business management, amply supplied with capital and employing to the fullest scientific methods and machinery. The object of the farm manager is to reduce cost of production to the lowest point.

An Eastern bank writer draws an interesting and truthful distinction between farming and or-

WONDERFUL FOR SICK STOMACHS

Everyone who tries it willingly acknowledges that it does cure indigestion, and certainly banishes dyspepsia and other stomach distress almost instantly.

Read this letter from Wm. Starkey, Rock Creek, Ohio:

I was sick for several years, went to hospital after getting no relief from doctors and many remedies that I tried. Unable to work, and confined to the house, I was advised to try Doctor Orth's Stomach Remedy. I had no faith in anything any more, but I tried it and to my happy surprise it did me good. I am now perfectly well and for six months have been working every day in the blacksmith shop, eating everything I want and in perfect health.

It is with pleasure that I recommend Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy. Money back if Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy does not do what we say it will, and remember that this remarkable remedy is the prescription of a practicing physician who used it with great success in exactly such cases as yours during a period of 30 years. Sayre and Hemphill and all good druggists can supply you.

ganized labor. Farming is an entire industry in itself, he points out, while labor is only part of an industry. Immunity from prosecution under anti-trust laws may be unfair as between the farming industry and other industries, but it does not disrupt the entire economic system by placing one component part of industry at an advantage as against the other.

Assuming that labor leaders are really interested in bettering the condition of their followers," concludes this writer, "they can have but one attainable object—to get more of the product of the labor of others for less of their own labor. Twist and turn as you will, it all boils down to the simple fact that men cannot consume unless they produce, and when one kind of labor is able to consume more while producing less, some other kind is being deprived of its just share."

This view faces the facts squarely, and is a wholesome antidote for the hazy type of thinking so much in vogue at present and the unintentional neglect or deliberate distortion of facts which makes fair consideration of any point at issue impossible. Instances are conceivable, nevertheless, wherein one kind of labor must consume more, if not produce less, in order to obtain its just share, and in so doing must profit at the expense of other kinds of labor. The large stocker and feeder movement in progress points unmistakably to an increase in meat supply and portends lower prices for another year, other factors remaining constant. Of this last no one can give assurance. For example, business revival may increase consumption.

Potatoes are again a disappointment this year. As often happens, the supply is more than sufficient. With shipments gravely hampered by the railroad situation prices are dropping out of sight.

Mild weather has given winter wheat a good start in most regions. A mild winter or a comfortable blanket of snow would remove the recurring danger of winter-killing.

ENGINEER MEETS INSTANT DEATH IN JUMP FROM CAB

Cincinnati, Nov. 16.—Shouting a warning to his fireman when he saw that their train, a south bound freight was about to collide with a wreck train on a trestle near Sadeville, Ky., Tuesday afternoon, J. C. Walten, Ladlow, Ky., the engineer, leaped to the creek bed below and was killed instantly when he landed head downward, snapping his neck. James Atkins, Junction City, the fireman, leaped also but succeeded in staying on the bridge and escaped with minor injuries. Both engines, which were travelling at a comparatively low speed, when they struck, were derailed and damaged but failed to plunge off the trestle. Misunderstood signals are said to have caused the accident.

HENDERSON IS SUGGESTED

Columbus, Nov. 16.—Political gossip here names Brigadier General Frank E. Henderson, Maryville, as the probable selection for adjutant general by Governor-elect Donahey. Henderson was third in command of the Ohio regiment in the Rainbow division during the war.

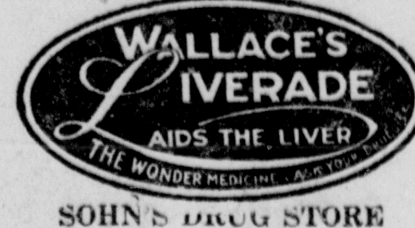

MINERS LIKELY TO COMPOSE THE JURY

Marion, Ill., Nov. 16.—Miners of "bloody Williamson" County are making no effort to keep off the Heroin "massacre" trial jury.

"If a miners' jury" is finally selected, the state of Illinois which is trying five alleged ring leaders in the murder of a score of non-union men, at the Southern Illinois Coal Company mine last June, will have lost its case, in the opinion of observers. Sentiment of the miners in the county is almost unanimously in sympathy with the men on trial.

OLD LAW GOVERNS PRICE
Washington, Nov. 16.—The natural law of supply and demand governs the prices for steel in this country, and not any combination of mutual trade agreements, Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of the U. S. Steel Corporation, testified before the Federal Trade Commission.

COST "AUNT ALICE" $3,695
Washington, Nov. 16.—It cost "Aunt Alice" Robertson, the only woman member of congress, $3,695 to make her unsuccessful race for reelection in Oklahoma, according to her campaign statement filed today. The Democrat who defeated her, W. W. Hastings, spent only $105.

PROSPEROUS YEAR HAD BY SOCIETY STAGING THE FAIR

That the Greene County Agricultural Society, which staged Greene County's annual Fair, had a prosperous year, is indicated by the report of B. U. Bell, treasurer of the society.

In spite of the fact that the Fair Board had to face the extra expense of erecting a new Art Hall, to replace the structure that had burned down, and in doing so erected a much better building to house that department than the old structure, the finances came out on the long end with an impressive balance in the bank. Credits for the year 1922 amounted to $26,743.22, according to Mr. Bell's report and the debts were $20,982.29 leaving a balance in the bank of $6,360.93. The cost of the new building was $3,198.77, the biggest single item on the expense list for the year, while gate and grand stand receipts composed the biggest part of the revenue derived.

WAR STILL LON FOR BALTIC SAILORS; DANGER OF MINES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Except for the taxes, the war is over for most of the people of America and Europe. For the crews of ships plying in the Baltic Sea however it might almost as well be in full blast.

In some respects, indeed, these sailors would be better off if the Allied armadas were still at grips with the Germans on the Western front for in those days they received fat bonuses for braving the dangers of torpedoes and floating mines.

Today they drive their ships through fields of drifting mines to get a berth even at ordinary wages.

The Treaty of Versailles contained lengthy and complicated provisions for ridding the seas of the thousands of floating mines planted during the war, and to a certain extent these provisions have been carried out.

Reports just received here from American consular representatives in the great ports of Northern Europe indicate, however, that in some localities, particularly the smaller bodies of water to the north, the danger from mines is practically as great as at any time during the war. In certain parts of the Baltic for example, no attempt whatever has been made to remove them.

Reporting from Hamburg, Consul Maurice Walk quotes the Hansa, Germany's best-known nautical publication.

"Even during the war it was recognized that long after its cessation the danger from mines would continue for many years," says the periodical. "This has turned out to be the case at least so far as concerns the Baltic and the Bay of Finland. In these frequently navigated waters large fields of mines are still lying untouched, mines are still lying loose from their anchors and are a constant menace to shipping."

"The work of clearing up these mines has been pursued industriously along the coast of Finland, but only the northern part of the Bay of Finland up to Hogland may be considered free of mines."

Mine-sweeping also has been undertaken in the Gulf of Bothnia, and the Finnish coast is practically free. The work will be continued in the Gulf of Bothnia between the coasts of Finland and Sweden this fall.

If Finland has done excellent work in eliminating the mine danger, however, the states bordering the southern part of the Gulf of Finland and the eastern and northern parts of the Baltic have done practically no mine-sweeping on a large scale. Just west of the important port of Reval in Estonia, for example, lies a great mine field entirely untouched. This field extends northwest into the territorial waters of Finland and in a westerly direction of the Baltic.

The program of the convention was announced Wednesday, the business session scheduled for ten o'clock Sunday morning having been dispensed with by the local chapter members.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellowish look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

PROSPEROUS YEAR HAD BY SOCIETY STAGING THE FAIR

That the Greene County Agricultural Society, which staged Greene County's annual Fair had a prosperous year, is indicated by the report of B. U. Bell, treasurer of the society.

In spite of the fact that the Fair Board had to face the extra expense of erecting a new Art Hall, to replace the structure that had burned down, and in doing so erected a much better building to house that department than the old structure, the finances came out on the long end with an impressive balance in the bank. Credits for the year 1922 amounted to $26,743.22, according to Mr. Bell's report and the debts were $20,382.29 leaving a balance in the bank of $6,360.93. The cost of the new building was $3,198.77, the biggest single item on the expense list for the year, while gate and grand stand receipts composed the biggest part of the revenue derived.

WAR STILL LON FOR BALTIC SAILORS; DANGER OF MINES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Except for the taxes, the war is over for most of the people of America and Europe. For the crews of ships plying in the Baltic Sea however it might almost as well be in full blast.

In some respects, indeed, these sailors would be better off if the Allied armadas were still at grips with the Germans on the Western front for in those days they received fat bonuses for braving the dangers of torpedoes and floating mines.

Today they drive their ships through fields of drifting mines to get a berth even at ordinary wages.

The Treaty of Versailles contained lengthy and complicated provisions for ridding the seas of the thousands of floating mines planted during the war, and to a certain extent these provisions have been carried out.

Reports just received here from American consular representatives in the great ports of Northern Europe indicate, however, that in some localities, particularly the smaller bodies of water to the north, the danger from mines is practically as great as at any time during the war. In certain parts of the Baltic for example, no attempt whatever has been made to remove them.

Reporting from Hamburg, Consul Maurice Walk quotes the Hansa, Germany's best-known nautical publication.

"Even during the war it was recognized that long after its cessation the danger from mines would continue for many years," says the periodical. "This has turned out to be the case at least so far as concerns the Baltic and the Bay of Finland. In these frequently navigated waters large fields of mines are still lying untouched, mines are still lying loose from their anchors and are a constant menace to shipping."

"The work of clearing up these mines has been pursued industriously along the coast of Finland, but only the northern part of the Bay of Finland up to Hogland may be considered free of mines."

The program of the convention was announced Wednesday, the business session scheduled for ten o'clock Sunday morning having been dispensed with by the local chapter members.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headache, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

JURY UNABLE TO AGREE; DISMISSED BY COURT THURSDAY

When the jury in the case of the State of Ohio in the matter of Helen Milburn against Calvin Dimmitt, whom the plaintiff charges with the paternity of her child, had failed to reach a verdict after six hours' deliberations, it was dismissed at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning by the court.

Attorneys for both sides completed their arguments to the jury at noon Wednesday, but the jury was given its usual noon recess before it was locked up. The members of the jury began their deliberations at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

At 3:50 o'clock the jury reported it could not agree and was instructed to continue its deliberations. At 5:30 o'clock the court excused the jury for the night with instructions to report at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning. The deliberations were begun again at 9:30 o'clock and continued until 11:30 o'clock, when still unable to agree on a verdict the jury was dismissed.

Dismissal of the jury means that if the plaintiff wishes to continue to prosecute the action that it will have to be tried in Common Pleas Court with a new jury for the third time. The first time it was tried, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant, Counsel for the plaintiff then carried the case to the Court of Appeals and obtained a reversal, the case being remanded to Common Pleas Court for re-trial. The second trial began in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning and the testimony was finished Wednesday morning.

JURY UNABLE TO

AGREE; DISMISSED BY COURT THURSDAY

When the jury in the case of the State of Ohio in the matter of Helen Milburn against Calvin Dimmitt, whom the plaintiff charges with the paternity of her child, had failed to reach a verdict after six hours' deliberations, it was dismissed at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning by the court.

Attorneys for both sides completed their arguments to the jury at noon Wednesday, but the jury was given its usual noon recess before it was locked up. The members of the jury began their deliberations at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

At 3:50 o'clock the jury reported it could not agree and was instructed to continue its deliberations. At 5:30 o'clock the court excused the jury for the night with instructions to report at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning. The deliberations were begun again at 9:30 o'clock and continued until 11:30 o'clock, when still unable to agree on a verdict the jury was dismissed.

Dismissal of the jury means that if the plaintiff wishes to continue to prosecute the action that it will have to be tried in Common Pleas Court with a new jury for the third time. The first time it was tried, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant, Counsel for the plaintiff then carried the case to the Court of Appeals and obtained a reversal, the case being remanded to Common Pleas Court for re-trial. The second trial began in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning and the testimony was finished Wednesday morning.

LINEUP FOR GAME FRIDAY IN XENIA IS NOW ANNOUNCED

Xenia Washington C. H. Washburn L. E. Flee... Bailentyne L. T. Hardway... D. Currie (C) L. G. Hegler... Yeakley C. Baker (C) Zell R. G. Larrimer... Smith R. T. Foster... Cowan R. E. Clarke... A. Currie Q. B. Vannorsdall... Randall J. H. Baughn... Woolary R. H. Harris... Hollencamp F. B. Dellinger... Referee: Reese, Denison.

This is the way the Xenia Central High and Washington C. H. High football teams will line up at the Fairgrounds gridiron Friday afternoon in the football classic of the 1922 campaign.

It will be "Homecoming Day" for Central High, incidentally the last home game of the 1922 grid campaign and in addition the first appearance of a former Central High star here leading a team from another city against his alma mater.

Coach Warren "Weiner" Vannorsdall, former three-letter man at Central High, is mentoring the team from the Fayette County metropolis, and in spite of a sparsity of material, has been making a good showing and has won the respect of the Washington fans. His brother, "Squeek" Vannorsdall, former Central High athlete, will perform at quarterback for the visitors here Friday.

Coach Vannorsdall will bring only 16 players to Xenia with him, according to Bob Harper, sport scribe on the Washington Herald, but these 16 lads are fit and primed for the game, which they would probably rather win than any other contest on their schedule. But in addition to the players, it is predicted by Harper that at least half of the student body as well as other Washington fans will accompany the team here for the game. School will be dismissed in time for the students to make the trip, it is said.

When the teams clash here at 2:30 o'clock, the Xenia team will have to have its eyes on Dellinger, freshman at Washington, who performs at full-back. The yearling is said to be the outstanding star of the backfield. He weighs but 140 pounds but backs up the line well and is hard to stop. Baughn, the 130-pound half, is the speed merchant. Harris, the other half, is a colored lad, powerfully built, but a better defensive than offensive man. Captain Baker, at center, is a huge lad, and the bulwark of the forward wall. Baker also does the punting. Harris taking his place at center. Clarke, at end, is an exceptional passer, going to the backfield to shoot the passes, in which the visitors are said to excel.

While Washington has not had a good season as Central, they have been playing hard teams and coming out of all games with creditable showings. Their outstanding feat was the defeat of Springfield High 9 to 6. The 1922 record of the teams follows:

Xenia 12, Greenville 0.
Xenia 7, Troy 0.
Xenia 0, Sidney 7.
Xenia 14, Piqua 0.
Xenia 51, West Alexandria 0.
Xenia 0, London 0.
Xenia 28, Greenfield 0.
Washington C. H. 0, London 0.
Washington 0, Greenfield 6.
Washington 32, Hillsboro 0.
Washington 9, Springfield 6.
Washington 7, Chillicothe 18.
Washington 0, Wilmington 16.
Washington (?), Xenia (?).

Coach Earl "Puss" Burner has his athletes primed for the Washington contest, and the "big blue" outfit, would rather win from Washington than most any team on the schedule. Fans are seeing in the "homecoming program" the most interesting grid clash of the season.

en who spend considerably less money for meat and groceries than I do. How can I cut down these bills?"

I glanced over the order slips and it did not take me long to discover her mistake. She was using only canned vegetables!

Now I believe thoroughly in having one's larder well stocked with canned vegetables. There is no life saver like a can of vegetables to "help out" and enlarge a menu when unexpected company arrives. And it is a blessing to have a can of vegetables on hand when one hasn't time to prepare a fresh vegetable and cook it. Also on Sundays—if no other day during the week—if it is nice, and necessary, to have such a vegetable as canned peas, corn or lima beans in the menu in winter time.

But as for opening a can of vegetables every day! That is needless extravagance, when there are the more reasonable vegetables such as carrots, turnips, cabbage, beets, etcetera, at hand. And these less expensive vegetables may be made just as delicious as the canned vegetables if the housekeeper will only take time to study the matter. The following menus suggest ways of using two of these cheaper vegetables:

Hamburg Steak Meat Balls
Baked Potatoes
Turnips au Gratin

Coffee Prune Whip
Turnips au Gratin: Six small turnips, three tablespoons of butter, one and one half cups of white sauce, coarse bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Pare the turnips and place them in a saucepan with boiling water to cover them. Let cook over a hot fire till tender, allowing the water to cook away as much as possible. Drain off any that remains when the turnips are tender, then place the vegetable, sliced, in a buttered baking dish and add the white sauce; season with salt and pepper to suit taste, cover with the bread crumbs, dot with more butter and bake in a hot oven for ten minutes to brown the crumbs and heat the dish through. Serve hot.

Sliced Cold Beef
Boiled Potatoes
Cabbage Pickle

Creamed Left-Over Carrots
Apple Pie

Quickly Made Cabbage Pickle: Grind one large head of cabbage and three or four large green sweet peppers in the meat grinder. Add one teaspoon of salt to this ground mixture and let stand one hour. Then drain well and add one cup of vinegar in which three fourths of a cup of sugar has been dissolved. Stir well and serve. This is a splendid relish to serve with cold meats. It can be kept a week or two in a cold place. Tomorrow—A Harvest Home Party.

Chapters From A Woman's Life

BY JANE PHELPS

GRACE HARTER MYSTIFIES HELEN Ralstrom CHAPTER 28

Grace Harter had a habit of calling Walter up at the studio, telling him she had arranged a dinner or picnic, and chatting with him over the phone.

"I expect he could murder me for doing it," she told me, "but I do it for his good."

"What do you mean?" I asked. We were sitting in my room, chatting. I invariably tried to keep Grace out of the way when she called Mrs. Page seemed to dislike her so intensely.

"It might break up a little love making between him and that handsome model of his," I had too laugh today, she answered the telephone. Said Walter had stepped out, asked who it was said she would deliver any message.

"Well?"

"I wouldn't leave any name, but asked her if she would kindly tell Mr. Page that the lady he was to motor with that afternoon found it impossible to go, that I would let him know why later."

You should have heard the way she tried to find out who I was. The change in her voice was funny when I wouldn't tell her. It had been like honey, then it changed to vinegar, pretty sharp vinegar at that.

"What in the world did you do that for? I don't see your object."

"Then you're stupid. I wanted to make her jealous, and I succeeded. Then her tone changed: 'That girl is dangerous. Doreen. Don't be a fool and shut your eyes to it. Fight her with her own weapons, commonness! She doesn't understand anything better.'"

"I am not so sure about that," I replied thinking of how she had looked at the roadhouse when I kept my poise.

"I don't mean to under-rate her, but she is cunning, not clever."

What was Grace driving at? Was she still a bit in love with Walter and hated Helen because of that? Or was she really my friend, and did she mean to help me?

"I'm not afraid of her. You see I am old fashioned enough to believe my husband leaves me; to have faith in him," I finally said.

"Faith in a husband is all right—with certain reservations," she returned "but artists! They are artists—first, husbands afterwards. And Walter is unusually temperamental, even for an artist, a worshipper of beauty—of the human form divine. And that girl is wonderfully lovely! No one could deny that."

"Oh, ye of little faith!" I quoted, determined not to let her see she had upset me, although she had, and aroused anew my jealousy of Helen.

"I have known Walter longer than you have, my dear Doreen, and I am older. Keep your eyes shut if you like then come and weep on my bosom and hear me say I told you so!" she spoke facetiously, but I realized that perhaps she was more in earnest than appeared.

In spite of myself I resented her reference to her acquaintance with Walter; the inference that she knew him better than I did, I his wife.

"Did you telephone the studio today?" Walter asked when he came in.

"No, why?"

"Nothing, only I stepped out for a moment and someone left a message but left no name. Probably someone who wanted a picture," he evaded.

"Didn't Helen tell you who it was?" I was rather enjoying his look of bewilderment. Grace had surely left him guessing.

"I told you once that whoever it was called refused to leave any name," he answered impatiently.

"Was it a man or a woman?"

"A woman, Helen said."

"Perhaps she knew who it was?"

"No, she had no reason to keep it from me if she did."

I said no more but all through dinner Walter was absent-minded. I could scarcely repress a smile. Although I rather resented his keeping secret the message. But perhaps Helen had not given it to him as Grace had left it, or perhaps—she had objected.

When I thought of the latter, I also thought she might have quarreled with Walter because of it. This was far from a comforting thought, because he plainly showed his anxiety to know more of the person who telephoned.

Tomorrow—Helen Resents Grace Harter.

This is the way the Xenia Central High and Washington C. H. High football teams will line up at the Fairgrounds gridiron Friday afternoon in the football classic of the 1922 campaign.

It will be "Homecoming Day" for Central High, incidentally the last home game of the 1922 grid campaign and in addition the first appearance of a former Central High star here leading a team from another city against his alma mater.

Washington (?), Xenia (?).

Coach Earl "Puss" Burgner has his athletes primed for the Washington contest, and the "big blue" outfit would rather win from Washington than most any team on the schedule. Fans are seeing in the "homecoming program", the most interesting grid clash of the season.

GRACE HARTER MYSTIFIES
HELEN Ralstrom
CHAPTER 23

Grace Harter had a habit of calling Walter up at the studio, telling him she had arranged a dinner or picnic, and chatting with him over the phone.

"I expect he could murder me for doing it," she told me, "but I do it for his good."

"What do you mean?" I asked. We were sitting in my room, chatting. I invariably tried to keep Grace out of the way when she called Mrs. Page seemed to dislike her so intensely.

"It might break up a little love making between him and that handsome model of his. I had too laugh today, she answered the telephone. Said Walter had stepped out, asked who is was, said she would deliver any message."

"Well?"
"I wouldn't leave any name, but asked her if she would kindly tell Mr. Page that the lady he was to motor with that afternoon found it impossible to go, that I would let him know why later."

You should have heard the way she tried to find out who I was. The change in her voice was funny when I wouldn't tell her. It had been like honey, then it changed to vinegar, pretty sharp vinegar at that."

"What in the world did you do that for? I don't see your object."

"Then you're stupid. I wanted to make her jealous, and I succeeded. Then her tone changed: 'That girl is dangerous. Doreen. Don't be a fool and shut your eyes to it. Fight her with her own weapons, commonness! She doesn't understand anything better.'"

"I am not so sure about that," I replied thinking of how she had looked at the roadhouse when I kept my poise.

"I don't mean to under-rate her, but she is cunning, not clever." Was she still a bit in love with Walter and hated Helen because of that? Or was she really my friend, and did she mean to help me?

"I'm not afraid of her. You see I am old fashioned enough to believe my husband leaves me; to have faith in him." I finally said.

"Faith in a husband is all right—with certain reservations," she returned "but artists! They are artists first, husbands afterwards. And Walter is unusually temperamental, even for an artist, a worshipper of beauty—an artist's human form divine. And that girl is wonderfully lovely! No one could deny that."

"Oh, ye of little faith!" I quoted, determined not to let her see she had upset me, although she had, and aroused anew my jealousy of Helen.

"I have known Walter longer than you have, my dear Doreen, and I am older. Keep your eyes shut if you like then come and weep on my bosom and hear me say I told you so!" she spoke facetiously, but I realized that perhaps she was more in earnest than appeared.

In spite of myself I resented her reference to her acquaintance with Walter; the inference that she knew him better than I did, I his wife. "Did you telephone the studio today?" Walter asked when he came in.

"No, why?"
"Nothing, only I stepped out for a moment and someone left a message but left no name. Probably someone who wanted a picture," he evaded.

"Didn't Helen tell you who it was?"
"I was rather enjoying his look of bewilderment. Grace had surely left him guessing."

"I told you once that whoever it was called refused to leave any name," he answered impatiently. "Was it a man or a woman?"
"A woman, Helen said."

"Perhaps she knew who it was?"
"No, she had no reason to keep it from me if she did."

I said no more but all through dinner Walter was absent-minded. I could scarcely repress a smile. Although I rather resented his keeping secret the message. But perhaps Helen had not given it to him as Grace had left it, or perhaps—she had objected.

When I thought of the latter, I also thought she might have quarreled with Walter because of it. This was far from a comforting thought, because he plainly showed his anxiety to know more of the person who telephoned.
